Sports Fun – a corporate event planning company in the Tampa Bay market - has recently added exciting new sports classes for kids.

Tampa, FL (PRWEB) February 16, 2010 -- Is it too soon to think about what your kids will be doing this summer?

Sports Fun in Tampa, FL doesn't think so. The company has announced new sports classes for school-age children beginning summer 2010. Activities will be inclusive, challenging and above all fun for kids.

These 30-minute weekly sports classes include crazy games, fitness challenges and sports activities that are guaranteed to bring out the athlete in every child.

Bill Dawson, owner of Sports Fun, says, "We excel at offering interesting events that appeal to adults at all levels so why not transfer our knowledge to the kid market. Childhood obesity is a huge issue in this country so we decided to focus on sports themed activities. I think all parents will be thrilled to know that their kids are running, jumping and actively playing over the summer."

The summer curriculum includes the following: "Fit-op-poly" - A fitness board game played with over-sized dice, Super Soccer – A unique game of soccer that includes two to four balls during a single game, Wacky Relay Races – Races with the craziest items using everything but the kitchen sink, Personal Fitness Tests – An age appropriate Sports Fun fitness test, based on the Presidential Fitness Challenge, Bandana Ball – Teams compete to grab bandanas from their opponents while trying to out run them to the safety line, Kooky Kickball – A game where everyone must handle the ball before stopping the kicker from scoring, Partner Stunts – Teams work together through movement skills, following directions, showing speed and flexibility, Ultimate Frisbee – Throw for distance, accuracy, aim for targets, and Sports Circuit – The circuit consists of 10 or more stations which include the use of sports equipment.
